

April 24, 2006
For Immediate Release

American RFID Solutions Launches Comprehensive RFID Web Based Training through the ARS eLearn Center.

American RFID Solutions, LLC (ARS), the leading provider of RFID training, testing and professional services, announced today the launch of the ARS eLearn Center Web Based Training course curriculum. These courses are offered through the ARS web site at www.americanrfidsolutions.com to registered users and include comprehensive coverage of RFID Fundamentals and RFID Certification tracks to include the CompTIA RFID+ Certification preparation, that is in the CompTIA approval process. The eLearn Center is a full featured Learning Management System (LMS) that includes individual classes, full course tracks, enrollment with e-commerce, certification profiles, training calendar among other advanced features.

"We are pleased to launch the eLearn Center to support our vision to provide end-to-end learning options for the RFID professional, from subject expert lead instructor training to self paced internet learning, said David Neumann, Vice President at ARS. Our training solution facilitates what we call RFID Learning-4-Life and the web based training is a key component of this."

The Web Based Training will be provided via e-commerce and can be packaged with the ARS recognized Instructor Led Training (ILT). Courses include pre and post assessments, full streaming audio and graphics and interactive questions placed throughout the classes. Individual classes and courses include training on topics such as:

- Readers, Tags and Antennas
- Standards and Regulations
- Testing and Troubleshooting
- Basic and Advanced RF Physics

More information can be found at the RFID eLearn Center found on the ARS home page at www.americanrfidsolutions.com. Users are encouraged to review the materials and register for an account. ARS is offering promotional pricing and incentives through the month of May.

Contact: David Neumann
Email: david@americanrfidsolutions.com

Phone: 866 RFID 24 7

About American RFID Solutions

ARS, based in Chicago, IL is the leader in providing RFID training globally. With training facilities in Chicago, Beijing, China and Penang, Malaysia, ARS is educating RFID subject matter experts around the world. ARS is the only training organization recognized and accredited by the International Supply Chain Education Alliance and the company contributed to the RFID+ certification as a member of the CompTIA cornerstone committee. ARS modular training is approved for continuing education units (CEUs) and leading universities have adopted its RFID Certification textbook.

To date, ARS has trained thousands of people in RFID including Fortune 500 firms, RFID OEMs and end users from prestigious organizations such as Accenture and Zebra. More information is available at www.americanRFIDSolutions.com.